OUTLET SHOPPING IS EASY AND ACCESSIBLE TO INTERNATIONAL VISITORS IN LOS ANGELES AT CITADEL OUTLETS

Currency exchange, brochures in nine languages, multi-lingual sales staff and free baggage check just a few amenities offered

LOS ANGELES—August 2, 2012—More than three million international visitors found time to shop at Citadel Outlets during their visit to Los Angeles in 2011 and felt welcome, with amenities designed to inform, assist and enjoy the only outlet shopping in LA. Recently a foreign currency exchange service has been added to Citadel Outlets' Customer Service Center, making currency exchange for more than 80 foreign currencies available.

Managed by CXI, which buys and sells U.S. and foreign Traveler's Checks and holds foreign currencies in stock for immediate availability, shoppers pay a nominal tiered fee of $3 for transactions between $0 - $199, $5 for transactions between $200 - $499, and $10 for all transactions over $500 (USD).

A multi-lingual store sales staff on hand throughout the center's 115-store campus speak 19 languages in addition to English, Spanish and Sign Language. In addition, Citadel Outlets provides center brochures in nine languages; Portuguese, French, German, Korean, Mandarin, Japanese, Vietnamese, and Spanish, in addition to English. Free baggage check is helpful for international visitors stopping at Citadel Outlets before returning home.

A recent shuttle service from the Disneyland area hotels in Anaheim deliver International Visitors enjoying other parts of Southern California to Citadel Outlets for a nominal fee; $14 round trip for adults, $5 round trip for youth 4-12 and free for under age 3. Transportation services are also available from the Los Angeles Downtown area. A VIP lounge, slated to open in the Fall of 2012, will pamper VIP shoppers with amenities, food and beverage, relaxing surroundings, Wi-Fi, internet service and more.
